

(clean version)

ABSTRACT

(new) A computer generated poetry screen saver includes loading an author analysis model, and randomly selecting a seed word from the author analysis model. A poem is completed following the seed word using the author analysis model and the poem is displayed on an output device. The screen saver allows a user to select an interface that includes the screen saver interface option including basic screen saver options.